VACRANT VERSES. When Hope Is Dead.

When hope is dead
What then? Why should I such
That then art are away, while I
Would not then close matend?
What matters it, not love, fond love, lost leve,
Now hope is lead? Alike all things are now
To no: I have no bear;
In once dear in Test's, and my part
Feyns finished as a bow
Hehmd the scenes my head,
For, on, for, oh, sweet love,
To me all hope is dead.

What the the earth
Be green, and light, and round,
In joyous beines lavishly abound.
In joyous beines lavishly abound.
As lifteless hid
By casket lid,
Beneath the green of sacred mound
what matters it, belove i,
Now buye is dead?

IV. In mornings when
I rise and, calement-shrined,
Gaze on the scene with melancholy mind.
By heart chokes ulterance then.
Oh, what if bright.
Or what if hight.
The art sylight!—thy image fied.
And hone were dead.
